Collection Overview

Extent: 140 cubic feet (110 boxes)

Creator: Nathans, Daniel

Administrative/Biographical History:

Daniel Nathans was born in Wilmington, Delaware. He was the youngest of eight children of Russian Jewish immigrants Samuel and Sarah Nathans. He received his BS in Chemistry from the University of Delaware in 1950. He then went to the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis where he was introduced to laboratory research working with pharmacologist Oliver Lowery. After receiving his MD in 1954, he served an internship at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital under Robert Loeb. Before returning to Columbia Presbyterian for a two year residency, Nathans was a Clinical Associate at the National Cancer Institute at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland. From 1959-1962, he was a research associate in Fritz Lipman's lab at the Rockefeller Institute in New York where he conducted research in the burgeoning field of molecular biology .

Nathans was recruited by W. Barry Wood to the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine Microbiology Department in 1962 as assistant professor, and remained on the faculty until his death in 1999. He became a full professor in 1967, director of the Department of Microbiology in 1972, and director of the Department of Molecular Biology and Genetics in 1981. He served as interim president of the Johns Hopkins University from June 1995 until August 1996. He was a senior investigator of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute and University Professor of Molecular Biology and Genetics from 1982 to 1999.

Nathans' work laid the cornerstone for the ensuing revolution in molecular biology. In 1978, he shared the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine with his colleague, Hamilton O. Smith, and with a Swiss scientist Werner Arber "for the discovery of restriction enzymes and their application to problems of molecular genetics." In 1993, Dr. Nathans was awarded the U.S. National Medal of Science. In 1999, Johns Hopkins University established the McKusick-Nathans Institute of Genetic Medicine, named for Nathans and medical geneticist Victor McKusick.

Chronology: 1962-1999 - Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine
1995-1996 - Johns Hopkins University, Interim President

Scope and Content:

The Daniel Nathans Collection documents his entire career. Included are lab notebooks, reprints, reports, correspondence, photographs, and administrative documents. Laboratory notebooks make up a significant portion of the collection and document his research using bacterial viruses, tumor viruses (especially SV40), and use of restriction enzymes. The administrative documents cover his roles as chairman of the Department of Microbiology, later Molecular Biology and Genetics, senior investigator of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, and interim President of the Johns Hopkins University.

The collection includes memorabilia relating to the 1978 award of the Nobel Prize in Medicine to Daniel Nathans and Hamilton O. Smith for their discovery of restriction enzymes and the application of their discovery to molecular genetics. Included among the memorabilia are 10 photographs of the award ceremony, flags and a Nobel medal, press releases, reprints of their restriction enzyme research, articles by A. McGhee Harvey on Nobel Prize winners from Hopkins, and a transcript of a faculty meeting address, October 1978, at which both Nathans and Smith spoke about their work.
