Collection Overview

Extent: 61 cubic feet (157 boxes)

Creator: Orem, Dorothea
Dorothea Elizabeth Orem was born and brought up in Baltimore, Maryland. Orem attended Seton High School in Baltimore, and graduated in 1931. She received a diploma from the Providence Hospital School of Nursing in Washington, D.C. in 1934 and went on to the Catholic University of America to earn a B.S. in Nursing Education in 1939, and an M.S. in Nursing Education in 1945. Her earliest years in nursing were spent in practice at Providence Hospital, Washington, D.C. (1934-1936, 1942) and St. John's Hospital, Lowell, Massachusetts (1936-1937). After receiving advanced degrees, Orem focused primarily on teaching, research, and administration. She served as director of the Providence Hospital School of Nursing in Detroit, Michigan from 1945 to 1948, where she also taught biological sciences and nursing (1939-1941). At the Catholic University of America, Orem served as Assistant Professor (1959-1964), Associate Professor (1964-1970), and Dean of the School of Nursing (1965-1966).

As a curriculum consultant, Orem worked with schools, departments and divisions of nursing in universities and colleges including The University of Alberta , George Brown College of Applied Arts and Technology, The University of Southern Mississippi, Georgetown University, Incarnate Word College, El Paso Community College, The Medical College of Virginia, and The Washington Technical Institute. She also served as curriculum consultant to The Office of Education, United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Practical Nurse Section in 1958, 1959, and 1960, to the Division of Hospital and Institutional Services, The Indiana State Board of Health from 1949 to 1957, and to the Center for Experimentation and Development in Nursing, The Johns Hopkins Hospital, 1969-1971, and to the Director of Nursing, Wilmer Clinic, The Johns Hopkins Hospital, 1975-1976.

In 1971 Orem published Nursing: Concepts of Practice, the work in which she outlines her theory of nursing, the Self-care Deficit Theory of Nursing. The success of this work and the theory it presents established Orem as a leading theorist of nursing practice and education. Nursing: Concepts of Practice is now in its sixth edition. She also served as chairperson of the Nursing Development Conference Group, and in 1973 edited that group's work in the book Concept Formalization in Nursing. She authored many other papers and during the 1970s and 1980s spoke at numerous conferences and workshops around the world. The International Orem Society was founded to foster research and the continued development of Orem's theories of nursing. During her life, Dorothea Orem received accolades for her contributions to the field of nursing, including honorary degrees from Georgetown University, Incarnate Word College, Illinois Wesleyan University, and the University of Missouri-Columbia. She was inducted into the American Academy of Nursing, and received awards from the National League for Nursing and the Sigma Theta Tau Nursing Honor Society.

Scope and Content:

The Dorothea E. Orem Collection consists of teaching and consulting records, correspondence, biographical and personal records, research materials, publications, and audio-visual materials relating to Orem's life and work. These papers document the development of Orem's Self-Care Deficit Nursing Theory and General Theory of Nursing. The research, teaching, publication, and consulting records all provide a chronological basis for understanding this development as well as the dissemination of the Theory.

Acting as a nursing consultant, Orem wrote a report to the Indiana State Board of Health in 1956. This report represents the earliest formal expression of her ideas on nursing. She continued to develop these ideas throughout her years as an educator/administrator and in 1971 she published Nursing: Concepts of Practice, the work in which Orem outlines her theory of nursing. The sources of Orem's theory of nursing, the Self-care Deficit Theory, can be traced to 1) her nursing practice experience for the essential ideas 2) her formation/education for the formalization of those ideas. Input from Orem's students and colleagues contributed to the development of the theory over time. The Nursing Model Committee of the Nursing Faculty of The Catholic University of America and the Nursing Development Conference Group, an offshoot of the first group, both contributed much to the development of ideas. In 1973 the NDCG published Concept Formalization in Nursing: Process and Product. In 1980, a revised edition of Nursing: Concepts of Practice was published reflecting the influences of the NDCG. During the 1980s Orem revised her book, and the theory was applied and tested in numerous places. Annual conferences and scholarly groups developed around the Self-care Deficit Nursing Theory during the 1980s. Today, the theory is taught and used all over the world and Orem is recognized as one the leading theorists of nursing practice and education.

Record group/Fonds 3: Catholic University Teaching and Administration Records - 1956-1970

Scope and Content: The Catholic University records consist of administrative, teaching, and curriculum development materials. During her time at Catholic University, Orem served many roles, including interim dean of the School of Nursing, professor and adviser, and curriculum consultant. Many of the records are of committees on which Orem served, notably the Graduate Curriculum Committee which incorporated Orem's early Self-Care Deficit Nursing Theory into its new curriculum. Orem also served as a mentor and adviser to many graduate students, and their papers, student records, and letters of recommendation may be found in this group. Her teaching notes and outlines for the courses she taught are also included.

Related Archival Materials Element: See also the Joan Backscheider Collection for her materials related to CUA.

Series 3.1: Curriculum and Course Materials - 1955-1970

Scope and Content: This series includes Orem's teaching notes, course outlines, bibliographies, and jottings related to courses she taught at Catholic University.

Record group/Fonds 4: Consulting Records - 1956-1991

Scope and Content: The Consulting Records group contains correspondence, working papers, and documents related to Orem's extensive career as a nursing practice and education consultant. Records document her work in curriculum development with schools and government institutions. She was also active in applying her theory to practice and consulted with many hospitals and health care centers on this subject. In later years Orem curtailed her consulting business, and often promoted her colleagues as experts consultants in her theory.

Related Archival Materials Element: See also the conference records for other consulting work. Correspondence with individuals from schools or institutions where Orem consulted may be found in the correspondence series.

Sub-sub-series 4.1.3: Center for Experimentation and Development in Nursing, Johns Hopkins Hospital - 1967-1976

Creator: Johns Hopkins Hospital. Center for Experimentation and Development in Nursing
The Center for Experimentation and Development in Nursing (CEDN) was established at Johns Hopkins Hospital in 1968 to encourage exploration of new concepts and roles in nursing and for theoretical studies in nursing. Proposed by Sarah Allison, the CEDN was separate from the School of Nursing and Nursing Service. Staff studied and designed systems to deliver nursing for the purpose of improving nursing practice and to assist patients to engage in therapeutic self-care. Dorothea Orem served as a consultant to the center and the center served as the first test site for Orem's Self-care Deficit Theory of Nursing. Additional consultants included Ann Poorman Donovan and M. Lucille Kinlein. Joan Backscheider and Mary B. Collins were hired as CEDN staff. A pilot project suggested by Emma Ventura, head nurse of the Endocrine Clinic, was the development of a nurse conducted Diabetic Maintenance Clinic. Other projects were conducted at the Osler Medical Clinic and at the Women's Clinic. Judy Crews, clinical nurse specialist in cardiovascular nursing, was hired to develop a cardiac nurse managed clinic at the suggestion of Dr. J. O'Neal Humphries and worked with him to develop a protocol for managing the anticoagulant coumadin. The work of CEDN was interrupted in 1972 when 3 of its key staff were in a car accident, killing Joan Backscheider and Mary Collins and injuring Sarah Allison. CEDN closed in 1974 but some of its activities continued in the Wilmer Eye Clinic where Sarah Allison served as Clinical Director of Nursing from 1974 to 1976.

Record group/Fonds 6: Institutional Records - 1965-2004

Scope and Content: This record group consists of records from groups or institutions with which Orem was affiliated or in contact. These include the Nursing Development Conference Group, the International Orem Society, the Orem Study Group, and other small organizations.

Sub-record group/Sous-fonds 6.1: Nursing Development Conference Group - 1967-1984

Creator: Nursing Development Conference Group
The Nursing Development Conference Group membership varied over time. Prominent members included Sarah E. Allison, Joan E. Backscheider, Cora S. Balmat, Mary B. Collins, Judy Crews, M. Lucille Kinlein, Janina Lapniewski, Melba Anger Malatesta, Sheila M. McCarthy, Joan Nettleton, Dorothea Orem, Louise Hartnett Rauckhorst, and Helen St. Denis. Input from Orem's students and colleagues contributed to the development of the Self-care Deficit Theory of Nursing over time. The Nursing Model Committee of the Nursing Faculty of The Catholic University of America and the Nursing Development Conference Group, an offshoot of the first group, both contributed much to the development of ideas. In 1973 the NDCG published Concept Formalization in Nursing: Process and Product. In 1980, Orem published a revised edition of Nursing: Concepts of Practice reflecting the influences of the NDCG.

Scope and Content: This record group consists of Orem's records relating to the Nursing Development Conference Group. It includes correspondence, meeting minutes and notes, as well as materials about seminars led by the NDCG.

Sub-record group/Sous-fonds 6.2: International Orem Society - 1991-2003

Creator: International Orem Society for Nursing Science and Scholarship
 International Orem Society for Nursing Science and Scholarship was incorporated in the State of Missouri in 1991 to serve as a forum on Self-Care Deficit Nursing Theory (SCDNT) developed by Dorothea E. Orem. Society founders consist of: Sarah Allison, RN, EdD (USA); Cora Balmat, RN, PhD (USA); Ger Brouns, RN, MSN (The Netherlands); George Evers, RN, PhD (Belgium); Donna Hartweg, RN, PhD (USA); Marjorie Isenberg, RN, DNSc, FAAN (USA); Lynne Nickle, RN, MSN (USA); Dorothea Orem, RN, MSNEd, FAAN, Hon: DSc, DSc, DHL (USA); Marina Senten, RN, PhD (The Netherlands); Hattie Shea, RN, MSN (Canada); and Susan Taylor, RN, PhD, FAAN (USA). The purposes of the Society are to: establish a world-wide network for interaction among nurses interested in Orem's conceptualizations of nursing; expand, refine, and clarify understanding of Orem's conceptualizations of nursing; provide avenues for gathering, organizing, and disseminating knowledge developed in relation to Orem's conceptualizations of nursing; facilitate the use of Orem's conceptualizations of nursing as a basis for nursing education, practice, research, and theory development; advance nursing science by promoting scientific and scholarship activity.

Scope and Content: This record group consists of correspondence and publications related to the International Orem Society given to Orem as a member of the Society.

Record group/Fonds 7: Research Materials - 1934-2004

Scope and Content: This record group consists of documents relating to Orem's lifelong research in the development of her Self-Care Deficit Nursing Theory and General Theory of Nursing. Bibliographies, notes on sources, reprints and papers, coursework, and jottings give a sense of her wide-ranging interests and continual reassessment of nursing theory.

Sub-record group/Sous-fonds 7.1: Reprints & Articles by Others - 1950s-2004

Scope and Content: This series includes articles and journals kept by Orem as part of her ongoing research.

Archival Arrangement: The arrangement of the reprints loosely follows Orem's original organization. She labeled many reprints with subject headings, and these have been maintained in boxes 91 to 94. The journals and reprints without preexisting subject headings are arranged alphabetically by author in boxes 88 to 90 and 94.

Sub-record group/Sous-fonds 7.4: Course Work of Orem's - 1937-1969

Scope and Content: This group consists of notes and course work from courses Orem took during her career. Many are from anthropology classes; these courses influenced Orem's theory development and ideas about the role of nursing in society.

Folder 98/1: Logic - 1937-1938

Folder 98/2: Hospital Ethics - 1947

Folder 99/1: notecards on anthropology sources - nd

Scope and Content: These are notecards for research done by Orem for various anthropology courses she took.

Folder 111/1: Anthropology 531 - Social Organization readings - 1965

Sub-record group/Sous-fonds 7.5: Notes & Jottings - 1950-1980

Scope and Content: These records are loose notes made by Orem throughout her life. She organized her complex thoughts about nursing theory by jotting and charting out her ideas; following the progression of ideas is difficult, but they form a valuable source on Orem's thinking process.

Archival Arrangement: Folders are maintained as Orem had notes and jottings grouped. There may be duplicate folder titles. Dating materials is difficult.

Record group/Fonds 8: Publications - 1952-2004

Scope and Content: This record group consists of any published material by Orem. It also includes publications collected by Orem but not used specifically for research purposes. These are primarily papers by colleagues. The bulk of the record group is related to books authored by Orem, from an unpublished manuscript in 1961 to the most recent edition of her classic text, Nursing: Concepts of Practice, in 2004. These records contain correspondence, manuscripts and proofs.

Series 8.1: Basic Nursing Series (unpublished books) - 1961-1968

Scope and Content: Dorothea Orem and Neva Stevenson were contracted with MacGraw-Hill to author four books as part of the Basic Nursing Series. The series was intended for use in vocational education settings, and work on the series took place from 1961 to 1967. Stevenson and Orem wrote some portions jointly, some individually, and consulted with other experts for some chapters. The books were never published. Some of the material and manuscripts clearly foretell the Self-Care Deficit Theory of Nursing (SCDTN) as it was outlined in Orem's later book, Nursing: Concepts of Practice.

Related Archival Materials Element: See also the Joan Backscheider Collection for her chapters relating to mental health nursing.

Sub-series 8.1.1: Outlines and general correspondence

Folder 112/1: General correspondence and agendas - 1961-1970

Folder 112/2: Series outlines and philosophy

Scope and Content: The series outlines contain an early rendition of the material to be covered in each book as well as the philosophical approach to be followed by the authors and publishers.

Folder 112/3: Revised series outlines - 1967

Scope and Content: The revised series outlines reflect the development of Orem's theory and clearly presage the structure and organization of her ideas in Nursing: Concepts of Practice.
