Processing Information: The W. Bruce Fye Collection is funded by a donation from W. Bruce Fye, who also provided a preliminary collection inventory. Sarah Braine processed and described the collection under the direction of Phoebe Evans Letocha in 2022-2025. Tim Wisniewski oversaw processing of the Photographs series and audiovisual materials. Allison Fischbach oversaw processing of the digital materials included in the collection.

Collection Overview

Extent: 46 cubic feet (42 boxes)

Creator: Fye, W. Bruce

W. Bruce Fye, III, was born in Meadville, Pennsylvania and raised in suburban Philadelphia. He earned his undergraduate and graduate degrees from Johns Hopkins University, receiving an A.B. in 1968, a M.D. in 1972, and M.A. in History of Medicine in 1978. Fye completed his post-graduate training on the medical service at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center then returned to the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine as a cardiology fellow in 1975 and in 1976 was awarded a post-doctoral fellowship in the department of history of medicine. In 1978, Fye accepted an appointment as director of the Cardiographics Laboratory at the Marshfield Clinic, Wisconsin, and rose to become the chairman of its department of cardiology in 1980. He was appointed a clinical professor of medicine at the University of Wisconsin in 1985. From 1989 to 1999, he served as vice-chief of staff at the St. Joseph's Hospital in Marshfield, Wisconsin. Fye pursued his interest in the history of medicine as a book collector and dealer and through academic research and publishing. He began collecting books in 1960, and launched his mail order book business W. Bruce Fye Antiquarian Medical Books in New York City in 1972. The business relocated as he advanced his medical career and closed its online sales in 2013 in Rochester Minnesota. He published his first book in 1987, "The Development of American Physiology: Scientific Medicine in the Nineteenth Century". He was appointed adjunct professor of the History of Medicine, University of Wisconsin in 1990. Fye was recruited to the Mayo Clinic in 2001 as a professor in the cardiology division as well as professor of history of medicine. In 2005, the Mayo Clinic established the W. Bruce Fye Center for the History of Medicine and named Fye as its founding director. Fye retired in 2014 as professor emeritus. Professional memberships and leadership positions include positions as president of the American Association of the History of Medicine (2008-2010), President of the American College of Cardiology (2002-2003) and president of the American Osler Society (1988-1989). Honors and awards include the William H. Welch medal from the American Association of the History of Medicine in 2000 and induction into the Johns Hopkins University Society of Scholars in 2005.

1968-1972 - Johns Hopkins University School of medicine (student)

1975-1978 - Johns Hopkins University School of medicine (fellowship)

Scope and Content:

The W. Bruce Fye Collection spans his entire career and documents his extensive contributions in cardiology, physiology, medical history, and medical book collecting, including his time building the history program at the Mayo Clinic, also known as the W. Bruce Fye Center for the History of Medicine, for which he served as director. The collection includes documents from Fye's time as a student of Johns Hopkins (undergraduate and medical degrees), his internal medicine residency at New York Hospital- Cornell Medical Center, and his time at the Marshfield Clinic. There are also documents from his time as president for the American Association for the History of Medicine (AAHM), the American College of Cardiology (ACC), and the American Osler Society, as well as his time as co-editor for the Profiles in Cardiology series. Other documents relate to Fye's book collection and antique bookstore, W. Bruce Fye's Antiquarian Medical Books, which he ran from 1972- 2013. Other material in this collection includes documents for the Ken Burns film, The Mayo Clinic: Faith, Hope, Science, which was released September 25, 2018, in which Fye served as a Senior Historical Consultant. There are also correspondence and research notes on William Osler, Fye's presidential addresses, reprints, as well as audio and visual material from his lectures.

Accruals Description: 2016-043, 2021-016, 2022-030

Archival Arrangement:

W. Bruce Fye provided an original inventory, which was used and adapted to fit archival inventory format/ standards. This collection is divided into fourteen different main sections/series. It should be noted that the majority of the material such as photos, correspondence, special events, posters, and awards can be found under the different series that are titled "Correspondence", "Photos", and "Special Events", "Posters", "Books", "Offprint Issues", and "Offprint Collections". However, the materials/documents such as photos, special events, and correspondence have been listed in other series (besides these main series) because the material corresponded to other material associated with another series (ex. Mayo Clinic Series includes/lists the correspondence related to the Mayo Clinic and isn't included in the Correspondence Series). As noted above, the material found in this series was originally organized chronologically by topic by Fye and was reorganized digitally to fit the archival organizational structure. This means, physically, all material matches the location/ boxes as how Fye originally organized the material and is not grouped together by how this series is digitally presented. Also, as a result some folder numbers that are part of how Fye originally titled the folders, differs from the folder number digitally given in the system. In a similar manner some titles have been changed to better fit archival needs (mainly the series titled Fye's Antiquarian Records and Book Collection, which was previously known as Bookish Life: W. Bruce Fye Antiquarian Medical Book).

Scope and Content: Lectures series documents all the lectures presented by Fye throughout his entire career. This series is comprised of seven boxes. Material includes folders that contains some (or all) of the following: announcement of talk, typewritten text (usually keyed to slides or Power Point slides), and the published article associated with the talk.

Sub-series 9.01: Lectures - 1974-2019

Archival Arrangement: Last three numbers of the publication numbers/reference numbers presented corresponds to number entries listed in the Lecture section of W. Bruce Fye's 2021 Curriculum Vitae. On Curriculum Vitae the folder entries with "a" and "b" content are listed as one entrée instead of being two separate entrees. This was done because the folders were separate in the box (ex. 305a and 305b as presented on this inventory is 305a-b on Curriculum Vitae). Numbers skipped had no corresponding folder/ material. Last five entries not found on Curriculum Vitae (added because content present in box but had not been included on Curriculum Vitae /list).

This series also includes general correspondence during Fye's time at New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical Center, Johns Hopkins, and Marshfield Clinic. It should be noted, that the correspondence with select individuals (individuals who have their own correspondence folder in this series), have their own folder due to the extensive number of letters and emails exchanged between Fye and the individual. There is also correspondence for the 1980 Symposium- Wisconsin Medicine: Historical Perspectives and the 2004 North American Society Pacing and Electrophysiology – Heart Rhythm Foundation Oral History Project. Other correspondence is related to the Pioneers of Cardiology and Cardiac Surgery series, on Fye's presentations and publications between 1970- 2020, and with cardiologists between 1974-2020.
