Processing Information: The William Osler Collection was organized and cataloged by Harold Kanarek in 1983. Funding to process the William Osler Collection was provided by a grant from the NIH National Library of Medicine (LM 03594). Since 1983, the Chesney Medical Archives has received additional Osler materials which have been added to the collection. Beginning in 2008, under the direction of Phoebe Evans Letocha, the Chesney Medical Archives began to convert the 1983 finding aid to a web-based finding aid. Medical Archives student assistant Emma Graf converted the unpublished collection inventory to the catalog. In 2012, Chesney Medical Archives volunteer Dr. Francis Milligan began processing the addendum to the Osler Collection and reviewing the original inventory for more accurate description. Medical Archives student assistants Liana Sanders and Bengucan Gunen assisted with the processing. In 2016-2017, student assistants Connie Scozzaro and Joseph Wallace reprocessed Series 4 Collected Notes on Medical Conditions. Visual Materials Archivist Tim Wisniewski has digitized the Photographs series.

Administrative/Biographical History:

William Osler

12 Jul 1849-29 Dec 1919

William Osler was born in Bond Head, Ontario in 1849. He received his M.D. in 1872 from McGill University and studied in London, Berlin, and Vienna from 1872 to 1874. He joined the faculty of McGill in 1874, and left in 1884 to become professor of clinical medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Osler was recruited by John S. Billings in 1888 to be physician-in-chief of the soon-to-open Johns Hopkins Hospital and professor of medicine at the school of medicine being planned. He revolutionized the medical curriculum of the United States and Canada, combining the best of the English and German systems. He adapted the English system to egalitarian American principles by teaching all medical students at the bedside. Believing that students learn best by doing, he felt that clinical instructions should begin with the patient and conclude with the patient. He stressed that books were supportive tools to this end and required that all students do a rotation in the bacteriology laboratory. Osler introduced the German postgraduate training system, instituting a general internship of one year to be followed by a residency of several years. His book The Principles and Practice of Medicine, first published in 1892, was based upon the advances in medical science of the previous 50 years and remained the standard text on clinical medicine for the next 40 years. He left Johns Hopkins in 1905 to accept the Regius Professorship of Medicine at Oxford University.

Chronology: 1888-1905 - Johns Hopkins Hospital
Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine

Scope and Content:

The William Osler Collection spans his entire medical career. Series include correspondence, personal and biographical materials, collected notes on medical conditions, publications, and photographs. There is an extensive group of letters from Osler to Henry Barton Jacobs covering the period 1905-1919. The majority of the Osler Papers at the Alan Mason Chesney Medical Archives are notes, case histories, letters, photographs, and journal articles on a vast range of diseases and medical conditions. The collection also includes material culture objects associated with William Osler and a few personal documents related to his son Revere Osler. A larger collection of Osler's personal papers is located in the Osler Library at McGill University in Montreal.

Series 4: Collected Notes on Medical Conditions

Scope and Content: The majority of the Osler Papers at the Alan Mason Chesney Medical Archives are notes, case histories, letters, photographs and journal articles on a vast range of diseases and medical conditions. In addition to use by Dr. Osler and Thomas McCrae in Modern Medicine and Principles and Practices of Medicine, some of these notes may also have been used by Dr. Osler for preparation of articles and lectures. Most of the case histories are from The Johns Hopkins Hospital but a significant number are from the University of Pennsylvania, and some from England. Many are descriptions of cases from physicians who corresponded with Dr. Osler from all over the United States and England. Many letters are inquiries from patients themselves or their relatives. The largest single section is on tuberculosis, and includes an entire box of reprints as well as the response to a survey letter that Dr. Osler sent to cities in England asking about their tuberculosis problem, record keeping, and educational programs.

Archival Arrangement: The medical conditions are arranged in alphabetical order. It is advisable to consult the table of contents to Principles and Practices of Medicine to see how the various medical conditions are arranged in his book. There are many files that are on diseases and medical conditions not specifically included in his book. Some of the patients in the case histories were suffering from a variety of conditions, or from one condition arising out of another, so the disease has been put in the section which seemed most logical. Within each diagnostic category, materials are arranged into the following sub-series: Case Histories and Patient Related Materials, Writings and Notes by Osler, Bibliographical Notes, Reprints by Others. Folders are arranged chronologically within the diagnostic sub-series.

Conditions Governing Access Element: This series contains records pertaining to patients and carries restrictions on access. Information identifying restricted documents and folders is noted on folder records throughout the series. Researchers would need to obtain individual authorizations or waivers of authorizations for access and use of protected health information and medical records. For more information about the policies and procedures for access, see Policy on Access and Use.

Related Archival Materials Element: A complete bound set of the collected reprints of Dr. Osler is also available at the Medical Archives.
